VALENTIN

If you catch a glimpse of Valentin Borissov's office waiting room in Mayfair, chances always are that you will see some prominent people. As a practising clairvoyant and astrologer, he has got a long list of clients in fields ranging from business and royalty to celebrity pop-stars and actors. Coming to England over a decade ago, he worked as an International Arts Correspondent and then returned to what had started out as a hobby, just to help people, and his reputation spread by word of mouth.

Valentin advises people on a wide range of issues, both personal and professional. His clients range from business people, who seek his input for major corporate decisions, to others seeking a solution to personal dilemmas.

Valentin inherited his "gift" from his grandmother, a Romanian Countess, as the ability of "second sight" runs in the family. He remembers discovering his talent at a young age, when he realised he had an insight into both the past and the future and could communicate with the spirit world.

Growing up in Sofia, Valentin studied as a concert pianist before going to Vienna University, where he studied literature. He is an accomplished linguist and speaks many European languages. At the age of sixteen he went to see Chrisana, a renowned clairvoyant in his native Bulgaria. She recognised his gift and became his mentor, helping him to develop his skills.

Valentin generally uses Tarot cards to make his predictions, but also numerology, astrology, crystal ball gazing and casting the Runes (the spiritually charged Nordic stones). He says for example about the Tarot cards: "They are the key to unlocking predictions. To others they are just images of cards, but to me they create a vision which tells me all about that client".

You can listen to Valentin on Sadie Nine's Show, BBC London 94.9FM, on certain Mondays ■
